1. Claims 1, 3, 5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 3 and 7 recite that the area irradiated with evaluation laser light constitutes an "area other than the area irradiated with said recording light" and "is different from the non-recording area of the resist layer" when the independent claims recite exactly the opposite with respect to the latter limitation. I.e., the trial exposure area -- the area irradiated with evaluation laser light-- is an area on a non-recording area of the resist layer according to claims 1 and 5. Hence, claims 3 and 7 as written appear to contradict what is set forth in claims 1 and 5. Clarification is required as to the exact nature of the trial exposure and the evaluation laser light and why the inconsistencies exist between the independent and dependent claims.

2. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir.

1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1, 3, 5 and 7 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 19 of U.S. Patent No. 7,344,822 in view of Japanese document 60-254,432. Claim 19 of US patent -822 recites a nanofabricating method wherein the instant inorganic resist is exposed and developed into a predetermined form, the claim failing to set forth that the predetermined form constitutes concave and convex information, that the article is a master or an optical disk, and that a trial exposure is conducted to ensure that the actual recording is proper. Japanese -432 teaches these aspects in making a disk that would be capable of functioning as a master or an optical disk. The making of optical disks using the general method of Japanese -432 is fairly well known and one of ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to have modified the method as set forth in claim 19 of US Patent -822 thus to accurately make a master or an optical disk therefor.

3.Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

In view of the certified translation, the previously applied art rejection has been dropped. However, upon closer examination of the claims, there is an inconsistency in what is being recited in the independent claims and the dependent claims that needs to be clarified. Also, the double patenting rejection over US patent 7,344,822 needs to be addressed.
